WALTER MUSSON CH. I.O.O.F. NOW OUT OF EXISTENCE

According to advices from Ottawa through the Canadian Gazette, the Walter Musson Chapter, I.O.O.F., which for the past ten or twelve years has carried on such a noble work connected with local war-charity works has now passed out of existence and has been removed from the register of war charities in the department of the secretary of state. Three or four other such organizations in the west have also been removed, their need not now being considered necessary or advisable. During the war and the after period, such institutions continued a noble work among all classes without distinction as to race or creed and it must be gratifying to all connected therewith that the efforts put forth met with the distinctive honors which were accorded all such bodies.

WEDDING BELLS

There was solemnized at the home of Mrs. W. Huntingford on Thursday last, the nuptials between Miss Esther Clarkin Mills and Mr. Angus Redvers Davidson, Rev. G. Pybus of the Wainwright United Church performing the ceremony before a small gathering of immediate relatives and friends.

The bride was prettily dressed in a gown of white georgette, with hand painted floral effect over an understitch of white satin, and wore a picture hat to match. Her only ornament was a gold wrist watch, the groom's gift.

After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served.

The happy couple have now left for the honeymoon at Aberdeen, Wash., where they will visit with relatives.

The many presents testified to the esteem of the many friends of the newly-weds.

DAHL-ESSEN
A lively wedding was quietly celebrated at the home of the bride's parents when Miss Anna Victoria Essen, of Metiskow, was married to Mr. Edward T. Dahl, formerly of Wainwright, on Sunday last. Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg attending the happy couple.

The bride was dressed in moonlight grey cut velvet and georgette, and she carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums and marguerites, the bridesmaid being attired in turquoise blue crepe and also carrying a pretty bouquet.

The bridegroom gave to the bride as a pearl necklace, while the bride gave to the groom a French compact and the best man a gold stick pin. Only immediate relatives were present when the ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Anderson of Metiskow.

A large number of beautiful and useful presents testified to the esteem and popularity of the happy couple who after a short honeymoon, will take up their residence at Lone Rock, Sask.

Mr. Chas. Hird, for many years an employee of the Buffalo pool, has now returned from a three months' visit at Vancouver.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Hugh Kemp is again on the sick list, after setting a little better a couple of weeks ago.

Mr. C. Abernethy is enjoying a visit from his father from Saskatchewan for a short stay.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME OF MR. ROBT. HYATT

On Tuesday last, fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hyatt, on 28-43-6 some eight miles south of town, and the whole of the building and contents proved a total loss. There was no insurance.

It appears that Mr. Hyatt was away at work in the Buffalo park, and Mrs. Hyatt had gone to the barn at about eleven a.m., leaving the five children ranging in age from 6 years to 3 months in the house alone. Mr. Tom Dolan, who was driving south, noticed the fire and immediately rushed in and saved the children, afterwards informing the mother who knew nothing of the outbreak.

Nothing of the furniture was saved, and in addition a sum of money—the proceeds of grain cheques—was also lost in a bureau in the front room. During the past few days the family have been staying at the Arthur Sharp home, but arrangements are now made for them to rent another farm home in the vicinity.

The family had only moved into the destroyed home on the Sunday previous to the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt wish to thank all who have helped them so generously in their loss, including the trades people of Wainwright and those who gave shelter and provision for themselves and their little ones.

See the new Westinghouse "Z Special" radio at the Wainwright Pharmacy Ltd., before buying your set for the winter.

Mr. W. Bruncker is busy wiring the new abattoir at the south end of the Buffalo park this week, while Chas. Reddick is hauling coal down there for the use of the men in the slaughter house during the coming buffalo killing. This starts this week.

Mr. Oliver Reid, from Radisson, Sask., was visiting friends in town this week.

We learn that Mr. J. McClellan and the Veitch Bros. are still thrashing somewhere north of town.

KLING-DEL REFIN. HOLD THEIR FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING

Mr. Chas. Klingman occupied the chair at the first annual shareholders' meeting of the Kling-Del Refineries Ltd., which was held in the Town Hall on Saturday last, and at which there was a full hall.

The workings of the company since its inception was very lucidly explained by the chairman, and was interesting in the financial statement as read by the secretary, Mr. E. Reid.

Others also addressed the meeting, and at a later stage it was decided to go after the bylaws that the holding of ten shares should provide qualification for the directorate.

It was also decided to take such steps as were necessary to have the registered office at Wainwright instead of in Edmonton as at present.

In the election for the new board of directors of the company for the ensuing year the following were the successful candidates: Messrs. Klingman, Reid, Bonge, Pearce and Blower.

In the evening the whole of the shareholders present at the afternoon meeting together with some of their friends gathered in the Park hotel and most thoroughly enjoyed a little smoking concert and "get-together" at which the pros and cons of the whole project were talked over; and at a late hour the affair broke up, fully decided that the Kling-Del Refineries Ltd. was a concern well worth setting behind to boost the big Wainwright district and its wonderful oil field with all the possibilities therefrom.

GEORGE M. COHEN PLAY WITH DOUGLAS MACLEAN AS STARR

Douglas MacLean makes his debut as Paramount star in an adaptation of the George M. Cohen play "Seven Keys to Baldpate." The story is a melodrama with an atmosphere of comedy, and with a big surprise ending.

The crux of the story centers in a situation where the hero, an author, goes to Baldpate Inn believing he will have solitude. Instead he is harassed on all sides and mixed up in an atmosphere of mystery and tragedy. How it all turns out is one of the big points to the plot.

Due to the stage success, the idea of the story is pretty well known. Where it is not known that the action is really the plot of the much talked of novel, there will be a big kick in the climax. Even the spectators in the "know" will enjoy the rapidity of action and swift pivot of the situations. The atmosphere of tragedy is given a comedy twist with a number of strong laughs. There are many incidents that bring real laughs even while they provide a thrill and the rush of the story keeps the improbability to a minimum.

Douglas MacLean in the role of the author displays a likeable personality and forms an interesting peg around which the action swings, but the comedy comes more from the situations than from his personal efforts. William Orlanonde as the hermit, brings real comedy to the smaller role and makes it stand out prominently above through his own work than because of the situations.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate," showing at the theatre here on Friday & Saturday, is a play of action, and this

COMPLETE CENSUS FIGURES MAY SHOW EXODUS

OTTAWA—Population returns for the three prairie provinces will not be completed for some time. Authorities in the several Saskatchewan ridges have not been entered up finally as they have large Indian reserves in them and the reports from the reserves have not yet been checked. They are being secured from the Indian agencies. When they are in the hands of the census takers will be able to make a total population for the three provinces.

While it's difficult to work out the exact situation, it is said here by officials that the increase does not come up to the natural increase by births less immigration, which means that there has been an exodus from the prairie and their cities and towns.

GOOD MUSTER AT G.W.V.A. MEETING

The Council chamber of the Town Hall was well filled on Saturday evening last on the occasion of the annual muster of the members of the G.W.V.A. when Dr. Wallace occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last annual meeting, as well as of several subsequent gatherings were all read and on motion adopted.

Secretary Harrington read an interesting report of the activities of the association during the past year, and this showed the body to be in a real flourishing condition, with a nice bank surplus of around $300.00 in hand.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and this resulted as follows:—

President—Mr. J. Mackenzie.
Vice-pres.—Dr. H. Wallace.
Sec.-Treas.—E. Harrington.

It was decided that the executive committee consist of eight members who were then elected.

RECEIVES $13,500 RAILWAY ACCIDENT AT GREENSHIELDS

Pearl Evelyn Hanway, widow of Fred L. Hanway, brakeman, who was killed while on duty on an east-bound freight train running from Wainwright to Biggar on the night of October 5 last, has received a settlement from the Canadian National railways on behalf of herself and two fatherless children of $13,500 and costs. Mr. Justice Boyle, signed the court judgment which is concurred in by Short, Cross & Macleod, the railway company's solicitors, and by Friedman & Lieberman, solicitors for the widow who on April 8 last entered a claim in the supreme court here for $25,000.

Hanway had been riding the pilot of the engine while the freight train was switching grain cars at Greenshields, five miles east of Wainwright, when a plank of the roadway over the level crossing, loosened by heavy loads of grain that were rushed to market late into the night, sprung up and hit him. His skull was fractured as he was thrown to the road, while the wheels of the engine cut off his legs. The deceased hailed from Truro, Nova Scotia.

Tracked By The Police

Novel by—WILLIAM B. COURTNEY
Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

Jimmy admired his father immensely. Loved him, even. The Police Lieutenant was a fine, strapping man—erect of carriage, square of chin, with flashing eyes and a flaming honesty as long as the summer's day. In all the Army Jimmy had not seen a Colonel or General he thought as fine and military looking as his father. Ever Pershing—and Lord knows that man was as handsome and soldierly as they come. But Pershing had nothing on his father, thought Jimmy, whose greatest ambition was to be worthy to follow in his father's honored footsteps.

"Goodby, pop," said Jimmy, proudly noting that the Captain of K. Company was eyeing the big, erect Police Lieutenant with respectful deference and coming up to shake hands with him.

"Goodby, son," said Ford, Sr., earnestly before turning to the Captain. "I've arranged things for you to take the first civil service examination for the Force that comes along. Your mother will be proud. Ruth will be proud—and I'll be proud. The father's steady eyes softened for a moment in to witlessness, and he lingered over a final handshake and admonition. "Goodby, Jimmy. I've been so glad to see you again. Hurry home, boy, as soon as you can. Mother and Ruth will be waiting for you."

One week later, when Jimmy got home, at last to the little flat on Twenty-first Street, it was to keep sobbing, tear-wrenched vigil in the parlor beside the body of his father, who had been shot down in a night gunfight with persons unknown. The Hudson Brothers were suspected, though forty-eight hours of police department netting and rounding up had not cracked through the mystery.

Next day, as Keenan, the undertaker, closed the coffin and shut the features of Police Lieutenant Ford, Sr., forever from the gaze of his loved ones, Young Jimmy Ford waited a long while to get even with the Hudson Brothers if it took him the whole of his life. He had always wanted to be on the Force; now he had a double incentive—vengeance added to ambition. He would create his police career, with the help of his superior officers, to ferret out the exterminating of that deadly band of thugs and murderers. Him alone, against the many.

In the shadows at the side of the little room, so heavy with the odor of funeral flowers, stood the Hon. Dan B. Murtagh, whose face was masked in an immobile smugness and hypocrisy, though his eyes flickered a little with enigmatic amusement at the unadvised oath of the bereaved son.

CHAPTER 3

Rin-Tin-Tin, awakened by an animal instinct and a high and loyal sense of duty that combined to form a signal much more compelling than any artificial alarm such as an alarm clock, rose at six o'clock sharp of a clear morning from the cool, clear fibre mat that served him for a bed in the tidy kitchen of the Ford flat on West Twenty-first Street, New York City. The salmon hued loveliness of a September dawn traced out the spick and span corners of the room with soft radiance. Rinty gravely yawned, then gingerly stepped off his mat. Next he indulged in what I the counterpart in every well-bred and self-respecting dog's life of a physically prideful human's morning shower bath; he shook himself efficiently and thoroughly. Starting at the tip of his tail the "shake" convulsed his hips, wriggled up the back of his neck and caused the hair to spring erect thereon, and snapped his head at the finish with a flourish that sent the last of the sleep flying from his eyes. Completely awake now, he granted and began the final stage of his rising and getting-up ceremony and exercise—a prodigious stretch of his magnificent adult body from toe to toe of his giant, shaggy, steel-lined beauty. First, he flattened his long keen muzzle down, and then with a slightly backward pull, upon his outstretched paws, leaving his rump high in the air and his brush tense. Smoothly then—the whole process from beginning to end was a fluid, flowing rhythm of effortless continuity and grace—he thrust his massive body up and forward over his forelegs, which now bore the brunt of his full hundred pounds; then shot his hind legs straight out behind him, the big muscles rippling like encocher snakes under the clean tawny flesh of his inner flanks. Fit for a frolic or a fight—during the day's dangerous work ahead.

Out—out—back and front, to a luxurious, stifling stretch of every cord and nerve and tendon in his great body; tingling now, grunting with the joy of strong physical life. Rinty drew himself together again and the same notion that carried his hind legs erect under him sent him forward on a wide-awake, joyous trot into Jimmy Ford's bedroom.

At one minute and thirty seconds past six on that soft September morning the arbitrary jerking of the bed clothes from his body and the nipping of friendly fangs at his bare feet summoned Jimmy Ford from the land of dreams to a realer land just as interesting and romantic to him, in the first flush of manhood and love, as could be any fragment of the night's sweet fancy. A land of work and people, and a dog that he loved.

The light touch of two swift passages of friendly fangs at his bare feet summoned Jimmy Ford from the land of dreams to a realer land just as interesting and romantic to him, in the first flush of manhood and love, as could be any fragment of the night's sweet fancy. A land of work and people, and a dog that he loved.

A land of work and people, and a dog that he loved.

In that hour Jimmy's love had grown up to and matched the calm sweet certitude of Ruth's sturdy affection and advanced comprehension in her heart there was no room for another, in his mind there was no more space for youthful jealousy. Then began the sure and steady foisting of love, and the preparation for the sanctification of love some future day before that selfsame Father Clancy whose cold gaze he had felt the power to bless and speed the wedding of two lives; as it did the beginning and the close of individual lives.

"Patient love. The patient love of the poor. In all the world there is nothing nobler than the long-denying steadfastness of true love in those to whom the stress and obstacles of economic stringency deny a spontaneous launching of the martial adventure. Well enough for the scions and pampered daughters of the rich and well-to-do; with them, to love or covet it to marry—without hindrance or delay. Not so the fortune of the poor or moderately circumstanced. For while the candle is recently tended, the tallow must be stockpiled by the slow and painful accumulation of pennies to get married on. Common phrase, that, in the shadowed straits of humanity! Common in Chelsea Common for Jimmy and Ruth. Many of the white in hallways of quiet love-drunk on pier stringencies in quiet nooks of the North river waterfront holding hands, shrilling in untold measures at the bulge of thigh against thigh, kissing. Unexploded passion Matches flaming under powder kegs. Plain, old-fashioned courting. Petting parties not for such unsophisticated ones as these.

Gravely Jimmy had gone to work. It was not so much that he had to support his mother. The pension from the Lieutenant's Fund of the Police Department assured her comfort for the rest of her days. Happiness she could never know again—now that her Jim was gone. For further material aid, there was the spare bedroom. Now, if some nice bachelor cop could appreciate a clean room in a quiet flat at a reasonable charge. Some one like Officer Flaherty, for instance—fat, and jolly, and a little dumb and quite helpless. Indeed, Flaherty would! And so, in due course, he was installed.

No, the fact of the matter was that Mrs. Ford, knowing how things stood with Jimmy and Ruth, and having a bit of memory of her own flushed young days with Jim, would accept no more from Jimmy than his board.

Start the morning with hot oats and milk and you'll feel better the whole day long. Quaker Oats supplies the energy needed by hard workers and growing children in an easily digested form. It "stands by" through long mornings of busy work.

Quaker methods of milling retain all the flavour and nutriment of the plump golden grains. Nothing so delicious, nothing so energizing as Quaker Oats.

Two kinds, regular Quaker Oats, and Quick Quaker that cooks while coffee boils. Both have the rare Quaker flavour.

Quick Quaker packages marked "Chinaware" each contain a piece of delicate imported chinaware in blue and gold. The cartons marked "Aluminumware" contain useful articles of aluminum for the kitchen.

RESEARCH HELPING FARMER

The latest bulletin of the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta contains interesting information concerning the seed distribution policy pursued by the University's department of field husbandry.

The field husbandry department has been conducting experiments with wheat for a number of years for the increase of its own new varieties and for the production of registrable varieties of field stock seed.

This is work of first-class importance which is greatly appreciated by the farmers of the province. It is not confined to wheat but includes barley, oats, peas, western rye grass, timothy, red clover, sweet clover and corn.

Applications for seed are now being received, but as the supply is limited they will have to be dealt with in such way as to give the largest possible benefit to the largest possible number.

It appears from this bulletin that the University has been giving special attention to the production of wheat seed that will best suit the climatic requirements of the drier parts of the South and East sections of the province, and of another type which will better serve the needs of northern districts where a wheat earlier than Marquis is needed.

Renfrew is the wheat chosen especially to meet the situation where there is a more limited rainfall. It is described as a later wheat, longer and stronger in the straw, and higher yielding than Marquis. It is said to be not adapted to areas where there is difficulty in ripening Marquis, but where early frosts are not feared it has met with success. In the last seven years' experiments Renfrew has shown a period of growth averaging 118 days, the average height of the plants being 45.5 inches, and the average yield being 47.9 bushels to the acre.

Red Bo's No. 222 is, as its name suggests, a selection from Red Bo's. Its distribution is an attempt to supply the needs of certain northern districts where conditions require a wheat earlier than Marquis and more productive than Ruby. It is about four days earlier than Marquis and has outyielded Ruby consistently in the University trials. Its growth period is on the average 109 days, and its yield 49.4 bushels per acre. Thus is scientific research being applied to the needs of agricultural Alberta. The University by itself, with the co-operation of demonstration farms and trained private agencies, is working constantly to create products the best suitable to the climatic requirements of the various portions of the province. More and more—and still less than the needs of the country call for—science is being employed to increase the production, and consequently the prosperity of our people.—E.S.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

In spite of the fact that the sentimental person is apt to decry "method" in connection with Christmas, the fact remains that there is a right way and wrong way to get ready for the festive season, just as there is any other phase of existence. And the right way for a happy Christmas is certainly to get your shopping done early. Once it is finished, and the rows of gifts in their gay wrappings and ribbons, tucked safely away in a secret drawer or cupboard, then you are free to enter into the joy of the holiday season with that good-will which should be its chief characteristic. If the plum puddings are all made or bought several weeks beforehand, if the tree is ordered, the Christmas cake with its gleaming frosting occupying a place of honor in your larder in anticipation of the feast on Christmas day, and all the hundred and one other things made ready, then another can really enjoy her day, and perhaps even muster a smile at four o'clock on Christmas morning when small feet patter in her bedside and childish voices, that should be stifled in sleep for hours yet, are heard asking if "Santa has come."

But to the woman who leaves all her shopping and preparations to the last week, Christmas is little short of a nightmare, and the long and frenzied struggle to find gifts for family and friends at counters surrounded by hundreds of others on the same mission is an exhausting and nerve-racking experience which, as a prelude to Christmas joys, has little to recommend it. Do your Christmas shopping early!

Although Christmas is still four weeks away, the merchants are making it easy for the wise shopper who is already making her purchases, and while some of the Yuletide novelties may not have arrived, the stores are full of articles suitable for Christmas gifts. In addition, therefore, to being able to secure these with little trouble, the early shopper will be conferring a real benefit upon the merchants and clerks by relieving them of some of the strain which mounts steadily as Christmas approaches.

SYSTEMATIZING MILES AND SMILES

The man who cannot afford a chauffeur envies the man who has one—more because of the sleek appearance and mechanical excellence of the car than for any other reason. But the chauffeur holds his job by keeping his cars well groomed. Then why not do the same with your chauffeurless car—it will respond with smiles full of smiles.

Cleaning spark plugs, is a long, dirty and monotonous job if you attempt to do all four, six, eight or twelve at the one time. You spend time looking for the proper wrenches, and, because you have no gloves in your equipment, you spend the rest of the day trying to clean the carbon off your hands. But when things are handy you can clean one or two plugs while waiting for someone to do an errand.

If a little of the system people use in their business would be applied to the running of their cars there would be far less need for repair shops or the laying off of machines when their services are needed most.

Because one car owner of my acquaintance failed to keep a record of the parts of the car he greased and the mileage dates he over-oiled the generator and the started motor and overlooked a universal joint entirely. He lost two days' use of the car while the service station was making amends for his mistake.

One of the most important things in managing a car is to keep account of all supplies bought for the car, together with the date and mileage reading of the speedometer when purchases are made. This tells you right off the reel how long it has been since you last changed the oil in the crankcase and what mileage the car is giving to the gallon of gas. The advantages of knowing the former are that it keeps from going to the trouble of changing oil too often, and forestalls the possibility of burning a bearing as a result of running the car for too long a period on one filling of lubricant.

To be able successfully to utilize the spare moments which constantly present themselves it is of utmost importance to carry all accessories to the cleaning and adjusting process along with you, and also to keep them conveniently located.

THE EXAMINER'S WEEKLY REVIEW OF PROV. MARKETS

CATTLE

DEEP—An easier movement has been experienced on the Edmonton market this week, through lighter offerings and a keener demand prevailing. Choice heavy steers $4.50@5.50; choice light $4.50@5.50; good $4.25@4.75; medium $3.50@4.25; common $2.75@3.25. Choice heifers $4.25@5.00; good $4.00@4.25. Choice cows $3.50@3.75; good $3.00@3.50; medium $2.50@2.75; common $2.25@2.50. Canners $2.00@2.25. Choice calves $2.75@3.00; medium $2.25@2.50; common $1.75 up. Choice calves $5.00@5.50; common $2.00@2.50; stock heifers $2.25@3.25; stock cows $2.25@2.75.

HOGS

Edmonton market slumped and thick smooths are being quoted at $10; with usual premium for bacon and improved thick smooths.

SHEEP

Prices held about steady on both Calgary and Edmonton markets.

GRAIN

It looks as if there are serious conditions ahead for the grain trade unless more ocean tonnage can be obtained. At present the steamers are hauling coal with the result that the grain movement is slow and eastern port houses are clearing capacity and there is still a large supply to come from western farms. Prices inclined to ease at Winnipeg.

BUTTERFAT—BUTTER—CHEESE

BUTTERFAT—Values are holding steady on the cream market this week, with only light receipts being handled. CREAMERY BUTTER—Quotations are holding firm, offerings of 32% Loh. Calgary have been received for shipments east, but no response has been made. Coast market said to be weak, as New Zealand butter is reported to be on the way at 30% Vancouver without duty. DAIRY BUTTER—Deliveries still continue to be light, as farmers are shipping what little cream they get to the creameries. MILK—Producers received an advance which put it up to $2.75 per 100 lbs. 3.6 basis, with the usual premium or reduction for receipts grading over or under this basis. CHEESE—Market is holding steady.

POULTRY—EGGS

POULTRY—Offerings still continue to be light and fairly active demand cleaned market well. Few birds being put in storage but not many. Chicken and fowl handled chiefly and for most part are in good condition. Prices steady. Few roasters marketed. EGGS—Storage stocks and B.C. pullet eggs supplying bulk of trade. Except Alberta pullet eggs on market shortly.

POTATOES

Some farmers report that they have received $25 per ton this week when selling direct to consumer. Jobbers' prices still $20@22.50 per ton. Some houses stocking up but not many. Receipts easier this week.

HIDES—WOOL

Market inclined to be weaker with prospects of frozen skins arriving on market shortly. Prices unchanged from last week. WOOL—Dealers still quote 17c delivered.

FURS

Coyote and weasel being handled, with bus come soon. Beaver good movement shortly. Country buyers out now. Prices steady.

Praises Alberta Phone System

Alberta's telephone system is not only considered one of the most up-to-date telephone systems in Canada, but its management is held up as a model for other systems all over the Dominion, in the opinion of experts of this particular line of business, stated M. K. Pike, general sales manager for the Northern Electric Company of Montreal.

Big Yield of Potatoes

A most remarkable record of potato production has been reported from a plot of little more than half an acre on the farm of Mr. Graybill, just a mile west of Commerce, near Lethbridge. These were Gold Coin potatoes and non-irrigated, and the small plot yielded 12 tons and 300 pounds. One potato weighed 63 oz., or three pounds 15 ounces, and there were over 200 potatoes which weighed between two and three pounds each.

GEOLOGISTS HAVE LITTLE FEAR FOR FUTURE OF OIL

The United States is consuming nearly a gallon of oil a day for every man, woman and child, and is producing slightly less than that, speakers at the first mid-year session of American Association of Petroleum Geologists announced Monday.

Moreover they said there is likelihood of steadily increasing demand in view of the introduction of new and varied appliances requiring oil for their operation.

According to E. De Goyler, president of the American Association, and former president of the association, Venezuela and Colombia are replacing Mexico, as the chief source of supply outside of the United States.

De Goyler said the industry is not alarmed at prospects of exhausted supply neither in this country or abroad.

'Supply of oil, like other minerals, cannot be measured and we cannot know its extent until it is gone. In view, however, of the existence of undiscovered fields and a vastly greater similar supply in foreign lands there is little likelihood of the world going oil hungry for a while.'

PREMIER DENIES THAT ALEX ROSS HAS RESIGNED

EDMONTON—Premier Brownlee gives a definite denial of the rumor that Hon. Alex Ross has resigned as minister of public works. No such resignation has reached him, he says, and therefore has not been either accepted or rejected.

The premier admits, however, that he has been giving consideration to the question of what to do about the future relation of the public works minister to the government of which he is still a member, though without a seat in the legislature, and will shortly make a statement as to his decision.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST

We are glad to state that Mrs. Robt. Dunsmore, who has been so low in hospital following her recent operation, is now progressing toward full recovery, although she will probably not be home for another two or three weeks.

We understand that all the machinery is here now for the big rig at the Wainwright Petroleum site, and that work is being rushed to make a start this fall if possible. The drillers at the British Wainwright are now spudding in, and Dave Credille hopes to continue drilling all winter if necessary.
